Information Awareness Month 2020 Finale including virtual networking cocktail party

The Information Awareness Month (IAM) Organisation Committee invites you to join us in celebrating the end of the IAM 2020.

This year IAM 2020 was focused on the importance of the right information in critical situations. Our participating organisations delivered a plethora of interesting events that explored this theme from various perspectives. We plan to finish this IAM in the same way. The IAM 2020 Finale will feature the representatives from our affiliating organisations sharing with you their views on this theme, their IAM experience and how they see the future of the information management after COVID-19.

After the initial panel discussion, the less formal part of IAM 2020 Finale will include a Q&A session blended with a virtual networking End-of-IAM cocktail party with BYO food and drinks.

Sincerely
IAM 2020 Organising Committee

About Information Awareness Month
Information Awareness Month (IAM) is a collaborative event between various bodies within information, knowledge, records, archives and data management communities, aiming to explore, promote and celebrate better ways of handling information. The month of May was selected as the month when we promote modern and improved practices of managing information in Australia and by Australians.

For more information and the IAM 2020 events visit: https://informationawarenessmonth.org/